

Limits of Confidentiality

Contents of all psychotherapy sessions are considered to be confidential. Both verbal information and written records about a client cannot be shared with another party without written consent. Noted exceptions are as follows:

- Duty to Warn and Protect:

When a client discloses intentions or a plan to harm another person, the mental health professional is required to warn the intended victim and report this information to the legal authorities. In cases in which the client discloses or implies a plan for suicide, the health care professional is required to notify legal authorities and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

- Abuse of Children and Vulnerable Adults

If a client states or suggests that he or she is abusing a child (or vulnerable adult) or has recently abused a child (or vulnerable adult), or a child (or vulnerable adult), or a child (of vulnerable adult) is in danger of abuse, the mental health professional is required to report this information to the appropriate social service and/or legal authorities.

- Prenatal Exposure to Controlled Substances

Mental health care professionals are required to report admitted prenatal exposure to controlled substances that are potentially harmful.

- Minors/Guardianship

Parents or legal guardians of non-emancipated minor clients have the right to access the clients' records.

- Insurance Providers (when applicable)

Insurance companies and other third-party payers are given information that they request regarding services to clients. Information that may be requested includes types of services, dates/times or services, diagnosis, treatment plan, and progress of therapy.
